MESSAGE:

An email letter of 30 June 2016 from a staff member in your Office of the Secretary regarding the availability of Persian translations of major messages of the Universal House of Justice has been received and referred to the House of Justice.

We have been asked to inform you that a selection of the Persian translations of messages of the House of Justice and those addressed to the believers in Iran, together with their authorized English translations, can now be found on the website www.payamha-iran.org.

Persian translations of the messages of the House of Justice, as well as messages addressed to the believers in Iran and their English translations, will no longer be sent to you directly as has been the practice in the past. You may wish to bring the site mentioned above to the attention of the Persian-speaking believers in your community. The site has a subscription function that allows individuals to receive a notification when new items have been uploaded.
